The accident occurred around 1:30 a.m. when a black Volkswagen CC traveling south on the freeway made an uncontrolled lane change and struck an 18-wheeler hauling a tractor-trailer. Both vehicles then veered off the freeway, striking the concrete divider barrier between the southbound lanes and the HOV lane.

Judy is Cord Blood, International Group B Strep Awareness Month

The month of July is high-lighted by the American Association of Birth Centers and International Group B Streptococcus (GBS) Coalition as International Group B Streptococcus (GBS) Awareness Month. GBS is a common cause of infection that can have serious consequences for both mothers and babies. GBS infection is the leading cause of neonatal sepsis worldwide and the second leading cause in the United States. An estimated 25 percent of all newborns are infected with the bacteria. The long-term impact of GBS infections ranges from minor to severe illness and can include permanent disabilities that affect the ability to care for oneself, disabilities of long-term care facilities, and in rare cases, death. The disease is most prevalent in the first week of life, but it can occur at any time in life.

GBS infects one to three percent of pregnant women in the United States. GBS infection can occur in two ways: an asymptomatic colonization and an active infection. GBS colonization occurs when bacteria enter the birth canal of a pregnant woman, and during labor, the bacteria can pass into the baby’s body, causing an infection. GBS infection can range from mild to severe and can cause meningitis, sepsis, pneumonia, and death. GBS can be transmitted from mother to baby during childbirth, and this infection can be prevented with antibiotic treatment. GBS screening is performed during pregnancy to identify women who are at risk of transmitting the disease to their babies. GBS screening is typically performed in the second trimester of pregnancy, and if the woman tests positive, she will receive antibiotics during labor, and the newborn will receive a single dose of antibiotics after birth to prevent transmission. GBS infection can be diagnosed in newborns with blood cultures or cerebrospinal fluid (CSF) cultures. GBS infection can cause serious illness and death in newborns, but antibiotic treatment can prevent it. It is estimated that 5.5 million babies are born each year to women who are colonized with GBS, and it is estimated that 12,000 newborns are infected with GBS each year in the United States. GBS infection is preventable with antibiotic treatment. GBS awareness and education are key to preventing this serious disease. GBS awareness and education can help parents and healthcare providers make informed decisions about testing and treatment.

The purpose of International Group B Streptococcus Awareness Month is to increase awareness and education about GBS and to encourage women to be tested for GBS during pregnancy. J. Frank Dobie Lariatettes officers announced

The J. Frank Dobie Lariatettes are proud to introduce their new officers for 2017-2018 school year. The officers include Maj. Zoe Ramirez, social executive Roxanne Hernandez, social president Aly Gonzales, business executive Briela Ramirez, and underfunded mandates

A new law requires state license to practice applied behavior analysis. The bill, which was introduced by UHCL’s Center for Autism and Developmental Disabilities, sets the stage for behavior analysts to practice in Texas. The bill was enacted into law on April 3, 2017.

The new license law requires that applicants complete a state-approved educational program and pass a state exam. Applicants who have already completed an approved program will be exempt from the exam.

The new law will also require that behavior analysts maintain a minimum of 40 hours of continuing education per year. This will ensure that behavior analysts stay up-to-date with the latest research and treatment options.

The new law is a significant step forward in the regulation of the behavior analysis profession in Texas. It will help ensure that individuals with autism and other developmental disabilities receive the highest level of care.

Legislature fails school funding

While the Texas Legislature has not ended the state’s school funding crisis, some relief may be on the way. The state has passed a bill that will provide $3 billion in additional funding for public schools.

The bill, which was signed into law by Governor Greg Abbott, provides an additional $7,000 per student for the 2018-2019 school year. This will bring the total school funding increase to $9,100 per student.

The bill includes a number of other important provisions, including:

- A $1 billion increase in state funding for school maintenance.
- A $1 billion increase in state funding for school technology.
- A $1 billion increase in state funding for school transportation.

The bill also includes provisions to address school funding in the future. It requires the state to provide an additional $5 billion per year for public schools, starting in 2023.

We hope that this legislation is a step in the right direction. However, we still have a long way to go to address the funding crisis in Texas.

Volleyball workouts to open; season starts Aug. 8.

In what has become an annual tradition at Dobie High School, the 2017-2018 varsity tennis team will compete against a group of Longhorns in a series of matches at the Longhorns courts.

What’s in store for the Clear Brook and Dobie varsity volleyball programs this season? It may prove to be a bit too early to provide the answers at the moment, but things will now begin to come into focus with practice workouts set to begin Aug. 1.

In 2016, the Lady Wolves’ season was one to remember, as they started the year as the Number 1 team in the state, but with few postseason victories.

The Lady Wolves are looking to improve on the season to continue their success. The team’s roster features 14 players, but with few postseason wins.

Replacing Julies Nowedie (now at the University of Colorado) and several other key starters this season, especially at setter, head coach Melanie Phillips has three-year seniors Jordan Russell and Khadija Yousef.

At right, Dobie’s Tyrone Workman is one of the state’s top volleyball players and she will try to help guide the Lady Dogs to the state playoffs.

JFD, CB host youth football school workouts.

JFD welcomes GAT, BHI high school students.

In what has become an annual tradition, the Dobie High School basketball program will host its former players for a series of matches starting Saturday, Aug. 5.

Returning former play-ders for 2017 will be former coach, Aug. 1, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Longhorns court.

Those workouts will lead up to the series of matches, which serve as Dobie’s official regular season opener.

In previous seasons, the former players have enjoyed a great deal of success against the younger natives.

That said, Dobie head coach Matt Montgomery has been a pretty good run of his own lineup. The team has had few postseason wins.

In the past few weeks of practice, the Longhorns’ seventh-through-ninth-grade students have been working hard to prepare for the upcoming football season. The Pasadena ISD does not provide medical insurance for camp participants, so families are responsible for providing their own insurance for medical emergencies. In addition to basketball, the summer Games include competition in “street games” such as kickball, hula hoop, and foot races.

Football camps continue to provide safe, nonprofessional outlets for children to practice their skills. The children’s parents, “that’s why it’s important to the Street Olympics to provide safe outlets with constructive activities,” commission-chair Ellis said.
