Joslin appreciates Stephanie Johnson

Buy Scout Pk 302 would like to send a special thank you to Stephanie Johnson at the Sagamore Community Center. In the early summer, Joslin 302 needed a new leader and our nest to partner with community members was nonexistent. We were feeling a real sense of urgency, strength, and support and Stephanii helped us get a new leader for our boys and community connections.

D the Scout Pk 302 recently set up a booth at the Southampton Community Center in preparation for the Southampton Community Center’s 11th Annual Art Festival. The festival was held in Southampton, MA on Saturday, July 30, 2016.

According to the Southampton Community Center, the festival featured over 100 artists, with a wide variety of art on display. The festival was held in the Southampton Community Center’s Jaworski Auditorium, which seats over 1,000 people.

In addition to the art on display, the festival also featured a variety of food vendors, with a selection of baked goods, fresh produce, and other delicious treats available for purchase.

The festival was a popular event, with a large crowd of visitors attending throughout the day. The Southampton Community Center was excited to host the festival, and is looking forward to hosting future events in the area.

Periodically, Parker Williams Branch Library also surveys the number of citizens who have volunteered to serve as library workers. The latest count was during the first week of June.

The 2016-17 school year was at an end for some Dobie High School HOSA members and National Honor Society students who recently served as library workers. President Donna Dmitrieva, sophomore, and vice president Destinee Nguyen, senior, are the sponsors for NHS at Dobie High School. Senior volunteers from the NHS and HOSA recently served at the branch.

San Jac offers textbook savings

San Jacinto College is preparing to launch a general educational resources (GER) course material program that will provide significant cost savings to students by allowing them to download free digital textbooks that can cost as much as $300 per semester. Students who participate in the new program will use Open Educational Resources (OER), course materials which are free and available for the start of the fall 2017 semester.

Some San Jacinto College classes have adopted OER materials for one or more of their courses. Among the first classes to use OER are marketing and human resources associate degree programs. San Jacinto College will pilot OER courses during the spring 2017 semester and the fall 2017 general studies associate degree program is tentatively scheduled to be available for students enrolled in the fall 2017 semester.

The College will provide full-time faculty with the tools and resources necessary to work with OER as part of their curriculum and teaching. The College also will provide students with on-campus access to course materials.

"The College is committed to offering students free access to course materials to reduce the financial burden of education," said Vogel.

The OER project at San Jacinto College is part of a larger effort to reduce the cost of education for students via open educational resources. San Jacinto College is one of many institutions of higher education currently paying attention to the high cost of textbooks and college materials.

"We want to do more to help students during one of the most important periods of their lives when they are making decisions about furthering their education," said Vogel. "By not having to pay for course materials, students can focus more on their school work without the expensive distraction of finances."}

NHS advisor at Dobie High School

Laura Garner, Dobie HOSA national advisor, recently worked with the Dobie National Honor Society. Due to her continued efforts, the Dobie High School Dobie National Honor Society is spreading awareness of the fact that students have the ability to download free digital textbooks via Open Educational Resources (OER) and use them for their education.

A longtime resident of the Dobie Independent School District, Garner worked at Dobie for 17 years in her capacity as a guidance counselor. During her time at Dobie, Garner ran the Dobie National Honor Society. She is currently working with the Dobie National Honor Society to spread awareness of the fact that students have the ability to download free digital textbooks via OER.

"We are working to make sure that students know they have the ability to download free digital textbooks for their education," said Garner. "We want to make sure that students know that they have the ability to download free digital textbooks for their education."

South Belt community celebrates Fourth of July

Downtown participants from the South Belt took to the streets in cars, trucks, motorcycles and boats in the annual Fourth of July parade as hundreds more gathered to watch. This year’s parade served as a tribute and celebration of anniversaries of local organizations that have been monumental in the development of the community. Members of the Southeast Volunteer Fire Department are shown above with their evacuation equipment.

Lee and Donna Hardnock, pose for a picture with their grandson, Ali Hardnock, on the parade route. The Hardnocks founded the new 20-year-old South Belt Spectacular Cookoff and ran it for the first five years of its establishment. The event is now being organized by the Southeast Volunteer Fire Department.

GOAL CHALLENGES RIGHT NOW, said Frank. “Rock Steady boxing is a relatively new program, but it’s a critically new one for our area. The focus now is getting the idea across to so many people that it’s here, especially on the other side of the disease progression. There are months and months of proof and evidence that this program does slow the progression of Parkinson’s, it’s very important to ensure that this resource is here and it’s help them.

While Parkinson’s is more common in elderly citizens, with one in every 10 individuals likely to be diagnosed with the disease, Rock Steady Boxing will come participants of all ages.

Typically the age group is around 50, but there are also people involved in their young, in their early 50s,” said Frank. “One of the most important things that people learned since being in the program is that people, particularly younger businessmen, leaders, tend to hide the fact that they have the disease out of fear of retaliation for their job. They’re worried that they might lose their job because other people may think that they cannot function normally. You can see the frustration in these people. Once awareness becomes widespread, people might not be so afraid to stand up for themselves. It’s really important for them to realize that they’re not alone.”

The program provides not just someone’s life, but also the quality of life.

Having seen such an intimate part of the program, Frank believes in the importance of Rock Steady Boxing and is committed to the cause of helping those affected with Parkinson’s to overcome the disease.

“Many people, I feel, will lose their doctor because something, and they will just sit down and wait until they roll over and die,” said Frank. “People don’t have to accept anything less because it’s what their doctor says. Having people come up to me and tell me they feel they have been helped by them has been the most rewarding thing to me about being involved in this program. It makes me feel as if I’ve done my job and it gives me motivation to continue coming up with more ways to help them. All I have to fear is that I have helped them improve their quality of life, and that’s all the motivation I need to continue.”

More parade photos next week! Those photos by David and Marie Flincher

Among the area organizations to participate in the parade was the F.A.C.E. Early Childhood Center. Shown above next to a Kawasaki Teryx is Gensamut. Jason, 16, is a member of the downtown softball team and will be a junior when school starts in the fall.

San Jacinto College volleyball to test proven 2016 opponents

By Calvino Howard, SJC

San Jacinto College Volleyball Head Coach Sharon Nelson has announced the 2016 schedule. The schedule begins Aug. 26 and concludes Nov. 20.

San Jac is scheduled to play seven home games, in addition to the San Jac Military Classic, and matches with last year’s national champion College of the Siskiyous and national runner-up Weatherford Community College at the Lone Star Community College Calledome.

The Knights will play the first home game early in the season when we will find out what we will need to be working on to win the 2015-16 season and move on to the second home game on the weekend of Aug. 28-30.

The 2016 schedule should challenge and complete tops among the other top teams in the conference, added Nelson.

Following the Classic, San Jac will host Region XIV’s top teams with three home matches against Coastal Bend College and Laredo Community College, before stepping off to San Antonio for the Lone Star Region Tournament Sept. 16 and 17.

The team will then head to Brenham and Weatherford to face Blinn College and Weatherford College, before closing out the month by returning to The Pebble Hills Invitational tournament in Taylor Sept. 30.

In the month of October, San Jac will have three games at home against some of the other top teams in the conference, added Nelson.

The Regional IV conference will take place Nov. 4-6 in Baytown. The National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) national championship will be held for No. 16 through Nov. 19.

Six players will return to the lineup for 2016. Three of the players went west 2015-16 overall, including first-team all-Region XIV selection Jas Biggs, and honorable mention honors Kayden Thomas.

Nelson has added nine more players to the 2016 roster.

2016-2017 athletic physicals stressed

The Dobie High School football program will host the 2016-17 athletic physicals at the Dobie High School on school level Monday, Aug. 1, and various coaching staff are again stressing the importance of students attending this event.

A $10 late fee will be assessed for all registrations after July 21. Participants should be prepared to bring a copy of their birth certificate, drivers permit, or ID and medical records to turn in.

No medical insurance for these types of summer or extracurricular activities, so parents are responsible for such coverage. For more information, direct email to Norman at MNorman@pasadenaisd.org.
