Bill combatss state nursing shortage

Gov. Rick Perry recently highlighted Texas efforts to combat the state nursing shortage by increasing nursing education. The governor signed House Bill 4471, which improves the Professional Nursing Recruitment and Retention Program and provides incentives for students to remain in Texas and continue to graduate nursing programs.

"We need more quality names graduating in Texas and House Bill 4471 accentuates on several great points," said Perry. "This bill will help in the future of health care in our state, and I am proud to have worked with our Legislature to address the nursing shortage.

HB 4471 improves the Professional Nursing Recruitment and Retention Program, which was established in 2001 to help solve the shortage of nurses in Texas. By rewarding high-performing nursing programs with up to $1,000 per student, this measure will help attract and graduate more nurses.

"If you hold a bachelor’s degree and would like to become a registered nurse, there is a nursing shortage throughout the state and Texas is actually doing everything we can to prepare our students to meet the demand," said Colton Wright, a 2010 graduate from the University of Texas at Austin.

Recruiting new registered nurses is a top priority for the Texas Nursing Commission. The nurse registration program was recently updated in 2001. Despite these efforts, Texas nursing schools will not produce a sufficient number of nurses to meet the health care needs of Texas. However, according to the Center for Nursing Workforce Studies, nursing schools often face the lack of funds, as the bigger hurdle for their recruitment efforts.

Addressing the state’s nursing shortage remains a priority for the Legislature. The Governor has signed legislation to improve the number of nurses hired through the New Nurse Registration Program.

Local school districts use Safe School Alert systems

Parents and community using Harris County’s Safe School Alert system receive timely information about area emergency situations and re-openings.

The grant-funded, online Tool Belt schools district Web site is www.schooltoolbelt.com, a free online service that helps schools to quickly provide accurate and current information. The site is updated throughout the day in real-time, multilingual, mobile and public. Emails posted provide information from the district weather rất, remains unannounced.

Subscribers may gain information about the district by signing up at www.schooltoolbelt.com or by following them on Facebook. Parents can join a mailing list which will alert them to emergencies within a particular district.

In a survey conducted at Clear Lake High School, 52% of the student body said they would join a mailing list if the service was available. Safe School Alert systems are designed to improve the response time of emergency staff and allow schools to have specific plans in place in the event of a crisis.

The Continuing and Professional Development division of San Jacinto College is hosting the Professional Nursing Innovation Grant Program event, which provides funding for schools to become a certified teacher in Texas.

"If you hold a bachelor’s degree and would like to become a registered nurse, you are eligible to the Safe School Alert program. In the fall, the program will be back in full swing with new information that is needed for our students and parents. The program will keep the parents informed and to have the ability to know what is happening in their child’s school," said Shere Bouie, a safety coordinator at Clear Lake High School.

Students are scheduled to return to school on Monday, Oct. 13, from 7 to 8 a.m. at the San Jacinto College Nursing Program. San Jacinto College is located at 5800 Bellaire Blvd., Suite 100A, Houston, 77036.

Romero remembered as inspiring

As many still grieve the loss of Gabby, there are others who have learned during this time. "A lot of us have lived our lives here in the South Belt area, and we see more crime and things like that. You think in time to move out," said Craft. "But this gives you an awesome feeling even though we have lost a beautiful young woman. The entire community came together in a big way and did what they could. It makes you proud to be in this area."

Dobie principal Steve Jamail echoed many of Romero’s thoughts. He was a coach at Dobie before moving up the administrative ladder to eventually become the principal. Jamail, too, is proud of what Gabby has witnessed. "It’s important to point out that Gabby was so positive and brought so much positive together. She was one of a kind."

"This is truly a heartwarming situation," Craft said of the memorial game. "A lot of people I know, coaches, are Gabby’s friends or had kids when they were small children. Romero remembers Gabby as ‘always being such a happy little girl.’"

As many still grieve the loss of Gabby, many of our athletes, and fans, want to see how much Romero will be missed. "We’re constantly looking to get the most out of Gabby’s life," Jamail said. "It’s a great opportunity for our students to see her fight," Craft said. "We need to remember that.""It’s important to point out that Gabby was so positive and brought so much positive together.
